

Who are the Green Captains?

The Green Captains were formed in 2021 in response to the Theatre Green Book. Originally a group of students from various drama schools, the Green Captains are now extending into industry and apprenticeships as well as schools and colleges.

The Green Captains exists to empower students and young professionals to explore and develop more sustainable ways of working, providing a support network to inspire and innovate. We are working to embed the Theatre Green Book into education and professional practice.

How to get involved?

Education (Drama Schools/Colleges/Universities/Schools)

We are looking for students from across the UK to form Green Captains groups within their institutions. These groups would then meet to share ideas and projects, work together on common goals and implement the Theatre Green Book.

Interested students would be supported by existing Green Captains to get this up and running.

Anyone interested can contact us at theatregreencaptains@gmail.com

Industry (including apprenticeships)

We are also looking to have more Green Captains in industry. This would provide young people in industry protected, paid time to work on sustainable solutions to problems their organisation faces. Footprint Scenery have been trialing this to great success. Industry-based Green Captains are still in early stages of development so there is flexibility and space for feedback and improvement as we go.

If interested, or for more info, please contact us @ theatregreencaptains@gmail.com